An Embryo Proposition as Yet!

Next week we commence our annual stock taking to ascertain beyond mere conjecture the amount of business done in the past busy twelve months. To enable us to close our books at the end of our year's business—Sept. 1st—and start out on the new year with a clean sheet, we request each and every customer indebted to our firm, to kindly call before Sept. 1st and close the unpaid balance of their account either by cash settlement or by note to balance. We are not pressed for funds, but it is necessary to the partnership agreement existing between the members of this firm, that this course be adopted annually. Your liberal patronage and prompt settlement in the past affords us unalloyed pleasure and we trust the above request will be regarded as a personal favor to us and not as an untimely or presumptive demand for settlement of outstandings.

CRIST MILL IN SIGHT

THE PROPOSITION OF E. SIMP-SON & CO.

Moose Jaw May Have a Grist Mill for 1900 if the Above
Firm Secure the Assistance
Asked for—A Reasonable Proposition—Will it be Successful.

Last April a public meeting of the farmers of this district and residents of the town was held under the auspices of the Moose Jaw Agricultural Society,
when a proposal for the establishment of a flour mill in Moose Jaw was submitted by E. Simpson & Co. and endorsed by those present. As the time is now drawing near when the people of this district
will be called upon to give the scheme
their financial assistance, we reprint the provisions of the proposal in full in order
that it may be thoroughly understood by all concerned. They are as follows:

THE PROPOSITION.

The undersigned hereby agree to pay
the amounts set opposite our respective names as a loan to the firm of Messrs. E.
Simpson & Co., of the town of Moose Jaw, N.W.T., in consideration of their putting up and operating a grist mill of a capacity of not less than fifty (50) barrels of flour
per day of twenty-four (24) hours.

The said mill to be erected on the premises now owned by the firm or on suitable premises to be procured by them
in the town of Moose Jaw, N.W.T.

The town of Moose Jaw to grant such firm exemption from taxation on their plant and premises for the term of twenty (20) years.

The said firm of Messrs. E. Simpson &
Co. hereby agree to do the gristing for the said subscribers at the rate of 30
cents per 100 lbs. of wheat and to return
all the flour and offal that the said wheat
when ground will produce.

The flour to be as good a grade as can be made from the respective kinds of wheat by the most modern and best roller process of milling now in use.

The said mill to be kept in constant operation if the supply of wheat for grist-ing is sufficient to keep it running for either twelve or twenty-four hours per day.

Provided that the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) is subscribed and paid
in to the credit of a committee appointed by the subscribers for the purpose, at —bank at Moose Jaw.

The said sum of ten thousand dollars
to be subject to the order of E. Simpson & Co. on their furnishing estimates of progress made in building from the inspector appointed for the purpose, the said inspector to be agreed upon and satisfactory to both parties to this agreement.

It is hereby agreed and covenanted
that should the subscriptions amount to
the sum of ten thousand dollars, the land on which the building is erected, the building and machinery shall remain as first security to the subscribers until they are repaid.

The firm of E. Simpson & Co. agree to keep the mill insured to at least two-thirds (2/3) of the amount of the loan.

The money to be paid in not later than December 1st, 1899. Should there not be sufficient subscriptions paid in during the year 1899 and in consequence the scheme be compelled to stand over for another year an arrangement will be made with the bank to allow the subscribers interest on their deposits during the time it is waiting for action to be taken.

In case there is not more than three thousand dollars ($3,000.00) subscribed
by January 1st, 1900, the amounts then paid in shall be returned at once to the subscribers. If over three thousand dollars ($3,000.00) is subscribed by January 1st, 1900, the amount paid shall remain over until January 1st, 1901, when
if ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) is not subscribed the amount paid in shall be returned at once.

The said firm of E. Simpson & Co.
hereby covenant and agree to commence
building operations as soon as the paid subscriptions amount to the sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) and push
the same to completion with all reasonable despatch.

Twenty-five (25) per cent. will be allowed to subscribers on the amount of their bills for wheat ground until their subscriptions are repaid in the following manner, that is to say, for every one hundred bushels of wheat ground into flour the sum of four dollars and fifty cents will be deducted from the amount charged and placed to the debit of their subscription until their subscription account is balanced, when full rates will be charged.

To subscribers who do not have grist-ing done, twenty-five (25) per cent. will be allowed on the grinding of all mill
products purchased by them and charged in the same manner as above.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Annual Report of the Edu- cational Department for 1898.

The annual report of the Territorial Educational Department for the year 1898 has been published, and is as usual very full of useful information.
The Secretary's statement comes first
and gives in very brief compass the statistics of the department. The number of schools in operation is 426, being an increase over the previous year of thirty-
two. The increase for the next few years may be expected to be much greater, if
the increased immigration continues.
Trustees and parents can readily understand the significance of this increase.
The Government grants to the various schools have been liberal in the past and no doubt will continue to be liberal, but the proportionate grant to individual schools must decrease as the number of new schools increases. The amount of money at the disposal of the Government
for educational purposes is not unlimited.

The number of pupils enrolled was 16, 754, an increase of 2,178. The number of teachers employed was 481. This would mean an average of thirty-four pupils for every teacher, certainly a good average for this new country. Of the teachers employed 232 were men and 251
were women. The scholastic standing of the teachers may be judged from the grade of certificates they hold. There were 116 first class, 271 second class, and only 96 third class teachers. This is a remarkably good showing for the North-West. The Government grants to the schools amounted to $133,642.79 for the past year, while the grants in 1896
made a total of only $84,986.72. Two years have made a vast difference in the North-West schools.

Assiniboia had 256 schools, Alberta
129, and Saskatchewan 41.

During the year the aggregate cost of buildings and improvements amounted to $23,718.

The Superintendent of Education, Mr.
D. J. Goggin, M.A., gives an elaborate report, in which he deals with the various educational problems that confront our new country. The influx of foreigners who mostly settle in colonies, presents a problem which must be met, and solved
very shortly, if the increased population
of this country is to be made a distinct gain to the country in the truest and highest sense. The question of attendance at school is also an important one.
The Superintendent strongly advises
more coercive measures to compel better attendance. He argues that the power that supplies the funds so liberally for educational purposes should also see that the means of education be taken advantage of. This report also deals with the inspection of schools and other matters relating to school life and study in an exhaustive manner.

Next come chapters on the maintenance of schools, programme of studies,
regulations concerning teachers' certificates, authorized text books, the Dominion Educational Association and professional examination at teachers.

British Guards Band.

Between forty and fifty of our town-
people went to Regina last evening by a C.P.R. special to hear Dan Godfrey's celebrated military band in the barracks riding school. There would probably have been a greater number but the company could not see its way clear to grant a lower rate than a fare and a third ($2.25) for the round trip. Those who attended are enthusiastic over the performance and cannot speak too highly of it. One gentleman says it was worth going 500 miles to hear. The train that took the Moose Jaw contingent down, ran between the Regina depot and the barracks from seven o'clock until after the performance was over, and was well patronized. The band will pass through Moose Jaw on this evening's Imperial Limited en route to the coast.

Lewis-Tate.

On Monday of this week Mr. Thos.
Lewis of Lethbridge, but formerly C.P.R.
line repairer on the Soo line, arrived from the east, accompanied by his bride, nee
Miss Jennie Tate, of Grand Valley, Ont., and after spending a day as the guest of Moose Jaw friends, they proceeded to Estevan for a short visit before going to their home at Lethbridge. The marriage ceremony was performed at the home of the bride on Tuesday, July 25th, her brother, Rev. Crawford Tate, performing the ceremony. Rev. Frank Tate, formerly of Estevan, acted as best man. In reporting the happy event the Grand Valley Vidette says: "A number of useful and costly presents were given the bride, among them being a beautiful gold
watch and chain, the case of the watch
being set with diamonds, the gift of the groom. Another beautiful present was a silver tea service. The bride is a charming young lady of bright and cheerful manner, and the groom is to be congratulated on having secured so amiable a partner in life. Our local photo artist
took several pictures of the bridal party,
one being one of the guests attired in the costume and carrying the accoutrements
of an Indian chief."

THE TIMES joins with their numerous Moose Jaw friends in wishing them much happiness and prosperity.

AN ULMATUM SENT.

CHAMBERLAIN DECIDES THAT OOM PAUL MUST SHOW HIS HAND.

War Officials Preparing for the Inevitable—30,000 Troops for the Cape.

London, Aug. 21.—The People asserts that it learns from a high official that the secretary of state for the colonies, Jos. Chamberlain, has dispatched through the British high commissioner in South Africa, Sir Alfred Milner, an ultimatum to President Kruger of the South African republic.

New York, Aug. 21.—The London correspondent of the Tribune says: The only new fact in South African affairs is the stoppage of arms and ammunition by the Portuguese officials. This act is denounced at Pretoria as a breach of treaty rights and international law, but the Boers themselves will violate the convention with England if they tempt on their own account anything like a spirited protest, for the friction in diplomatic affairs under Mr. Gladstone's compact rests entirely with the suzerain power. Portugal is evidently acting under pressure from London with a view to convincing the Boers that their military operations will be hampered by lack of an available base where supplies can be obtained.

It is another turn of the screw, but increasing pressure does not weaken President Kruger's power of resistance and inertia. He has not yet accepted either Sir Alfred Milner's ultimatum or Mr. Chamberlain's scheme for an expert inquiry, but it is beating against time in holding back the new franchise proposals. Probably he will make terms with Mr. Chamberlain in the end without bringing on a hopeless conflict of arms.

The English press, with two exceptions, is strongly supporting Mr. Chamberlain. The Manchester Guardian is filled with trenchant criticism of the government policy and Mr. Massingham's Roman hand is seen in the Daily Chronicle leaders, in which the point is made that there is a continuous record of cumulative demands on the British side without a single acknowledgement of the series of concessions made by President Kruger.

Mr. Chamberlain dispatched an ultimatum to President Kruger through Sir Alfred Milner based on the terms already propounded, namely, that of an irreducible minimum of five years' qualification for the franchise. The People also states that war officials are prepared to dispatch 30,000 troops to the Cape, half of them coming from India.

London, Aug. 21.—The latest franchise kit from Pretoria has failed of its expected effect. It is merely regarded as a device to gain time. There is no cessation of the war preparations on either side. The Transvaal government is beginning to move troops to the border, and the police on the frontier have been ordered to strictly prohibit any cattle leaving the country, while the treasury of the republic is receiving large amounts of gold beyond ordinary requirements.

Condensed News by Wire.

Syracuse, N.Y., Aug. 21.—A serious break occurred in the Erie Canal here yesterday afternoon. It is expected that it will take three or four days to make repairs.

Bracebridge, Ont., Aug. 21.—The son and daughter of Andrew Kerr, aged 12 and 18 respectively, were drowned at Port Sydney yesterday while bathing.

Orillia, Aug. 21.—Mary Sesak, a girl 13, fell from a raft in Bass Lake, while playing with other children and was drowned.

Clarence, Ont., Aug. 21.—Napoleon Villeneuve, aged 17, struck his head on a rock while bathing in the Ottawa river and was drowned.

Indian Head, Aug. 21.—While racing on horseback Friday with another boy, little James Cuth, aged 10 years, fell from the horse, alighting on his head, causing concussion and paralysis of the brain. He died. He was a son of James Cuth, a farmer living about five miles of this place.

Ottawa, Aug. 21.—Charles Blair, a thirteen year old lad from Hull, was drowned yesterday in the Ottawa river while swimming near the C.P.R. depot.

St. Paul, Aug. 21.—Mrs. Jennie Weston drowned herself and her four year old son Bertie, in a cistern at Pierre, S.D. The cause was domestic troubles.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—The Afro-American council resumed its session yesterday with a committee on resolution deep in conference. It was resolved to send a cable to Capt. Dreyfus expressing the sympathy of the colored people for a man who had suffered much on account of racial prejudice.

Midland, Aug. 21.—George Godfrey, night watchman at elevator No. 1, was drowned yesterday morning. He was walking along the edge of the dock in front of the elevator, lost his footing and fell in. A rescue was attempted but they could not get the body out till life was extinct.

Goderich, June 21.—Capt. John Freer, of Chicago, one of the oldest lake captains in active service, died here while in charge of his boat, the Madeline Dowling. He had just given an order to tie the boat up at the dock here when he was stricken with apoplexy and never recovered.

Goderich, Aug. 21.—Alex. Binie, aged 50, committed suicide Saturday by taking paria green. The mother of deceased died six weeks ago and deceased became very down-hearted thereafter.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Monday, August 21.

A whiskey trust is to be formed in Ireland.

A. J. Stane, an ex-Winnipeg merchant, has given orders to arrest Gen. Mermet.

Seven boys escaped from the Penitentiary at Goderich, Ont.

John Freer, an old lake captain, has died at Goderich, Ont.

Chamberlain has dispatched an ultimatum to President Kruger.

Geo. Gully, a Brandon contractor, was injured by a fall from a scaffold.

Rev. Dr. Burford Hoag, a noted English divine, is a visitor in Winnipeg.

Great Britain is arranging to send large war supplies to South Africa.

It is rumored the French government has given orders to arrest Gen. Mermet.

The ex-accendant of the Ville Marie bank, F. Lemieux, has been admitted to bail.

Jan. Cuth, an Indian Head lad, 12 years of age, was killed while riding with a companion.

The son and daughter of Andrew Kerr, of Bracebridge, Ont., were drowned at Port Sydney.

Work on the Portage la Prairie bridge over the Assiniboine, will not be started until next week.

Mr. Fitzpatrick, the Canadian solicitor general, has arrived in New York from the old country.

Anarchists and Socialists united in three riots in Paris, shattering the interior of a sacred edifice.

A young lady of Grand Forks, attending a convent school in Winnipeg, took French leave of the institution.

The Portuguese have refused to allow Boer arms and munitions of war to be transported across their territory.

Walter Stewart, manager of the Molson's bank, Montreal, has issued a statement in connection with the trial now in progress in Winnipeg.

At the preliminary trial in Winnipeg of J. W. Anderson, charged with the Molson's bank theft, Accountant Macbeth was submitted to a severe cross-examination.

Philadelphians, Aug. 21.—A head-on collision between two trolley cars occurred yesterday on the Norristown, Chestnut Hill and Roxborough railway in Plymouth township, Montgomery county, a few miles north of this city.

Thirty persons were injured. The railway is a single track road, with switches. The passengers of the south bound car assert that the motorman failed to wait at the switch for the arrival of the car going north and the accident resulted. Seeing that the accident could not be averted many of the passengers jumped and were severely bruised.

President Weir Recovering.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—Wm. Weir, president of the insolvent bank Ville Marie, is recovering his strength slowly. There is reason to believe the mental forces of the aged banker have received a shock from which they may never wholly recover. It has been rumored for some days his memory was far from clear on important subjects, but it was hoped with the return of physical strength he would be able to face the serious condition of the bank's affairs. Somerville Weir, his son, was asked as to his father's health. He said, "Physically, he is much better than he was, and mentally, you cannot expect a man of 80 years of age to be all that might be desired under the circumstances." "There is a rumor here that his memory is impaired," said the reporter. "There are many rumors, but they are not all true," was the only reply.

Morality of the Bishops Questioned.

London, Aug. 21.—According to a dispatch from Rome, the Gazette Di Venezia, recently attacked the morality of the bishops attending the Latin-American conclave. The organ of the Vatican, the Observatore Romano, replied that the bishops were above suspicion. Now the Gazette Di Venezia responds affirming that a majority of the bishops brought mistresses to Rome, and in some instances children. It offers to disclose the names and demands that the pope take measures against them.

The Recorder Buried.

Montreal, Aug. 21.—The funeral of the late Recorder Demontigny Saturday morning, in accordance with the earnest wishes of the deceased, was of the simplest character. Twelve papal zones surrounded the bier, which was followed by judges, lawyers and public men of all creeds and nationalities. The chief mourners were the seven sons of the deceased. Vicar-General Racicot received the body at the church of St. Louis De France and mass was said by Rev. Father Larocque.

Geo. Gully Injured.

Brandon, Aug. 21.—George Gully, contractor, was seriously injured Saturday morning about nine miles northwest of Brandon. He was working on a brick residence being built for Mr. Donald McEchran, farmer, when he fell from the scaffold. He was picked up unconscious and a man was dispatched to Brandon for a doctor.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The following dispatch was received at the war department yesterday: Manila, Aug. 19.—First Lieutenant Alfred W. Drew, 12th infantry, instantly killed; and First Lieutenant Willis Ulline, same regiment, severely wounded, yesterday in an attack on the insurgents in the vicinity of Angeles by two companies of the 12th infantry. No other casualties; enemy routed.

Chasterville, Aug. 21.—John McCadden was found dead in his bed with a shot gun beside him. It is uncertain whether his death was the result of suicide or accident as deceased had been in the habit of shooting sparrows from his bedroom window.

Detroit, Aug. 21.—A Tribune special from Harbor Beach says: The schooner Hunter Savidge, captained this afternoon in a squall off point Au Barbeau. Five of her crew were drowned. She was commanded by Captain Sharpsteen of Alpena.

A BOER PAMPHLET.

IT RECITES THE HISTORY OF THE DUTCH IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Boers Trying to Induce Portuguese to Allow Ammunition to Pass Through Their Territory.

London, Aug. 20.—The Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Mail says: General Joubert's appeal, which reached the Queen Saturday is a casting pamphlet, reciting the history of the Dutch in South Africa. He laments the discovery of gold in the Transvaal, which has led, he says, to British oppression of the Boers, and he stigmatizes the recent appeal of the Uitlanders as a false document. Alluding to the Applebe murder, he reminds the Queen of the Jack the Ripper crimes in London.

Pretoria, Aug. 20.—The Volksraad continued the discussion of the dynamite monopoly, the debate being carried on until the hour of adjournment. The government has received no reply to its dispatch to the authorities at Lorenzo Marone regarding the stopping of a consignment of stores now in Delagoa Bay. Cable instructions have been sent to Dr. Leyds, plenipotentiary of the South African Republic, to the European states to proceed to Lisbon and make representations to the Portuguese government with regard to the landing of the war materials.

Lorenzo Marone, Delagoa Bay, Aug. 20.—The government of the South African Republic is making strenuous efforts to persuade the local Portuguese authorities to permit the passage of ammunition. President Kruger has personally wired a request to that effect stating that a rodus vivendi with Great Britain is assured. Two thousand cases of arms are due to arrive here from Hamburg.

Unbounded Hospitality.

The 90th Rifles Accorded a Grand Reception at Grand Forks.

Grand Forks, N.D., Aug. 20.—Grand Forks was in gala attire on Thursday, and the streets were crowded with visitors, 1,500 coming from Winnipeg, and hundreds from towns in the district. The presence of the 90th battalion was the greatest event in the city's history. The regiment was received with wildest enthusiasm, and their marching, and the playing of their band was a revelation even to their warmest friends. The Grand Forks citizens took complete hold of the visitors, and they owned the place. The march past on Third street of the Canadian soldiers in the afternoon was greeted with cheer after cheer from the thousands of people who lined the balconies of the buildings for blocks.

Two Prisoners Escape.

Stoney Mountain, Aug. 20.—Two convicts escaped from the prison guards about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon while unloading hay at the prison barns. One, a twenty-year man, was recaptured about 7 o'clock in the prison grain field, when Guard French spotted him. He was lying on his back exhausted and exclaimed: "I guess my job is all up," and so it was when French got him in charge.

The other is still at large and the staff has kept up the search all night under the warden's directions. It is thought he must have got into the bush near the town. A diligent search will continue.

Explosion of a Coal Oil Can.

Berlin, Ont., Aug. 20.—At Freeport village, four miles south of here, last night, Mrs. Watson was starting a fire with coal oil when the can exploded, setting fire to her clothes. In the blaze she rushed out and rolled over in the grass in a vain attempt to demolish the fire. The woman lingered in dreadfully agony till this morning, when she died. She was forty years of age, and leaves seven children, the youngest being a baby two months old.

A Diver Drowned.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 20.—Diver Wm. Baldwin was killed near Tacoma Saturday while trying to reach the sunken British ship Aedaea, lying at the bottom of the harbor. Death came to the daring submarine expert when 150 feet below the surface. Death was due to some accident to the pumping gear, which supplied the air. The Aedaea lies in 190 feet of water. Baldwin was on the second descent in an attempt to reach the deck of the craft.

Wind Storm at St. Mary Creek.

West Prince Albert, N.W.T., Aug. 20.—A report came in last night that one of the most terrific hail and wind storms ever known in the district visited St. Mary Creek, about fifty miles southeast of here. All the grain was utterly destroyed, a number of houses demolished and a young man named Smith, who was in one of them, was killed. A number of others are also reported killed.

Victoria, Aug. 20.—The safe of Mann, Holland & Co., brokers and insurance men, was broken open last night and $185 taken. The office door had been forced open and the safe opened by using the combination. No arrests are yet made.

Sydney, N.S.W., Aug. 20.—The premier, Right Hon. George Houston Reid, in addressing the farmers' conference here, promised that the government would assist them to get the best American machinery, thus aiding in the improvement of their condition.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Saturday, August 19.

In a colliery explosion in Wales 25 persons were killed.

Julio Wilkinson, of Kingston, had a narrow escape from asphyxiation. Much pay dirt has been discovered on the Pelly river, near Selkirk, Yukon.

Robt. Scott, a respectable man, was caught robbing an Owen Sound residence.

New South Wales government will assist farmers to buy American machinery.

Empress Dowager of China has ordered the arrest of Kang Yu Wei, the reformer.

Logs Swept Away.

High Water at Edmonton Covers the Agricultural Grounds.

Edmonton, Aug. 20.—Water reached its highest stage at midnight, covering the agricultural grounds, but commenced falling rapidly Saturday morning. The electric light company, whose plant was completely covered, have shut down for an indefinite period. Thousands of logs placed in the river to be rafted were swept away.

Walter & Humberstone and Dr. Fraser are the chief losers. One span of the Red Deer trestle bridge is carried away. The bridge piers here stood the test splendidly. A miner from the Rocky mountains states they had ten days of steady rain and the heat was intense, being 100 in the shade. Mail was delivered last night for the first time.

Two Fatal Explosions.

London, Aug. 20.—In an explosion Saturday in the Liest colliery, Glamorgan, Wales, eighteen persons were killed and sixty others are still in danger.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—A special to the Record from Tampico, Mex., says: By the explosion of a boiler on a locomotive of the Mexico Central railroad, seven men were killed and three fatally injured. The locomotive was standing on a side track at Cardenas when the explosion occurred. It was of a special pattern, and of great size, being used to haul trains up the mountain. Among the killed are four American engineers, who were in the caboose. The names are Simon, Fitzgerald, Hussey and Gibson. Another American engineer named Lockhart, who was standing near the engine, was hurled one hundred feet and fatally injured. The other killed were three Mexican firemen and wood passers.

Will Control American Trade.

Toronto, Aug. 20.—Four big bicycle factories, the Massey-Harris company, the Lozier company, the Gould Bicycle company and the Welland Vale Bicycle company have amalgamated their interests and will constitute a new concern with a capital of $6,000,000. The leading members of the concern are Senator Geo. A. Cox, of Toronto; Warren Y. Soper, of Ottawa; W. E. H. Massey, E. R. Thomas and L. M. Jones, of Toronto. Mr. Massey will probably be president. The same company will manufacture automobiles and will not pretend to control the bicycle trade of Canada, but expects to be able to control the Americans, who now supply half the wheels in use in Canada.

Chicago Bridges Condemned.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Two bridges over the Chicago river are ordered closed to traffic, seven others are condemned, and two others are labeled "Very suspicious." All this came about Friday because the bridge over the Calumet river at 95th street dropped into the water when swung for repairs. The bridge broke square in half over the centre pier and both ends fell into the water.

Depositors to Receive 53 Per Cent.

Montreal, Aug. 20.—Mr. Kent, one of the provisional liquidators of La Banque Ville Marie, reported to the committee of depositors that $1,140,000 has been absconded with. He represented the bank's losses as amounting to $728,000. It will likely require half a million to take care of the note circulation, leaving $640,000 for the depositors or about 53 per cent.

London, Aug. 20.—The board of trade bankruptcy report for 1896 shows an increase of 256 in the number of failures. Commenting upon the Hooley failure, the report says: "Reckless and extravagant methods of promotion converted a profit of $5,000,000 into a loss of $88,000. Investors are warned to distrust ornamental directors."

Victoria, Aug. 20.—A big society reunion demonstration was held here Saturday, there being 5,000 visitors. Seattle, Vancouver, Nanaimo, Wellington and Tacoma sent delegations.

THE SASKATCHEWAN.

AT EDMONTON THE SASKATCHEWAN RISES FORTY FEET.

The River is Still on the Rise, and is Full of Drift, Miners' Shacks and Effects.

Edmonton, Alta., Aug. 18.—The Saskatchewan river has overflowed, rising forty feet during the last twenty-four hours, and continues to rise. Already the bridge piers are four feet under water, and the electric light boilers are covered. Floating islands of wood are passing the town. The ferries have broken away, and no mail has arrived. Thousands of feet of lumber are adrift.

At present the water is rushing over the Hudson's Bay Co. flats. Two and a half inches of rain fell in twenty hours. The end is not yet, and the loss will be great.

The historic steamer Northwest, of the Hudson's Bay Co., has just broken from her moorings, struck the middle pier of the bridge, and gone down the river a total wreck. The river is still on the rise, and is full of drift miners' shacks and effects. Citizens on the river bank are moving out.

BANQUE VILLE MARIE.

Warrants Issued for the Arrest of President Weir and Others.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—Startling developments in connection with the suspension of the Banque Ville Marie have arisen. There was issued today warrants for the arrest of President Weir, F. W. Smith, director; and F. Lemieux, accountant of the bank, at the instance of the government.

The Canadian Bankers association met yesterday to receive a report upon the affairs of the Banque Ville Marie, prepared by an inspector from the Bank of Montreal, and one from the Merchants' Bank, but they decided to make public nothing about the report as such publicity might tend to interfere with the liquidation of the bank, and depreciate the value of some of its securities. The report only covered points of the Ville Marie bank's circulation in which other banks are naturally interested, as they would have to make good whatever amount the Ville Marie Bank was unable to pay. The supposition, therefore, is that there is a large over issue circulation, and on the street the amount of over circulation is placed as high as $700,000.

It is stated the different banks of Canada have nearly $300,000 of the Ville Marie bills in their possession, as the bank after suspension is said to have redeemed about $100,000. This would amount to a circulation of $400,000; when on June 30 the official returns gave a circulation of only $261,870. Whether the over circulation is really as large as this cannot be stated positively, as the bankers' association decline to make public the report of the inspectors. In the meantime the bank will not redeem any more of its bills until after Monday, when the creditors meet.

Miners Arrive With $350,000.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 18.—The steamer Catch arrived from Klondike ports last night with 100 Yukon and Athlun miners on board. Purser Turner states the ship brought down $350,000 in gold dust.

The trouble over the recent seizure of six Canadian fishing boats near Point Roberts by the U.S. customs officials will probably be tested in a day or so by the release of the boats.

Lizzie Gales, a comely young woman, died in the city hospital on Saturday of cancer. Less than two months ago, Miss Gales left the home of her widowed mother in Montreal to come to Vancouver. Here she was to meet James Kelly, fireman in the Hastings mill. The young couple were to have been married shortly after her arrival. The friends she made during her short life in Vancouver were greatly shocked to hear of her untimely demise.

Reducing Yukon Force.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—Within a month or six weeks one-half of the military force in Yukon will be back in the depots from which the men were drawn last year. There has been some talk among the men of the forces here that in case of an outbreak of trouble in the Transvaal a portion of the Canadian regulars might be despatched to South Africa, but the story meets with official denial. In case of the unhappy necessity of employing actual force in South Africa, it is quite possible Canada might contribute towards the defense of the imperial interests and it is not at all unlikely volunteers would be forthcoming, but our regular force is so small that it is felt it would be required here.

Vancouver, Aug. 17.—Much regret is felt at the death of Colin Campbell McKenzie who was superintendent of education prior to Mr. S. D. Pope, lately retired. He was one of the pioneer residents of the province and over twenty years had lived at Nanaimo.

Montreal, Aug. 17.—Joseph Kelly Bright, a law student at Laval University, fell off the deck of the steamer Quebec, near Lunenburg yesterday morning and was drowned. He was the speaker of the university's model parliament.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—W. H. Pike, Ph.D., professor of chemistry since 1879 in the University of Toronto, graduate of Oxford and doctor of philosophy of Göttingham, has resigned his position and will live on an estate he has just purchased in England.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—Interest in the affairs of the suspended Banque Ville Marie was revived yesterday by the news of the arrest of the president, W. Weir; one of the directors, R. F. Smith, and the ex-accountant, F. Lemieux.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Friday, Aug. 18.

A terrible storm swept the Scotch coast.

Serious forest fires are reported from New York state.

Tathamton won the free-for-all at Mendon over Loue.

More recruits for the Philippines are being called for.

Dewey will arrive at New York before the end of next month.

Winnipeg cricketers defeated Monmouth at Portage la Prairie.

The 90th Rifles received an enthusiastic reception at Grand Forks.

The O. P. R. will have a magnificent exhibit at the Paris exposition.

The Victoria won the lacrosse match from the Winnipeg at Port George park.

Canada will hold all disputes with the U.S. until the Alaskan boundary matter is settled.

The Saskatchewan is overflowing seriously at Edmonton. The water is the highest in seventy years.

One of the interesting features of the Dreyfus trial yesterday was a statement by Col. Henry's widow.

Walter Wellman and the survivors of his solar expedition have arrived at Tromsø, Norway. New lands were found in the north.

The conservators of Lorne and Morris hold a picnic at Carleton Place, Mr. Hugu J. Macdonald was present with an address.

President Weir, Director Smith, and Ex-Accountant Lemieux, of the Ville Marie bank, have been arrested for making alleged false returns.

STANDARD BANK ROBBERY.

Ten Suspects Arrested in Hull Alleged to Have Taken the $11,000.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—Chief Genest, of the Hull police, claims to have solved the mystery of the Standard bank robbery, which occurred in Bowmanville last May. The suspected bank robbers are now in the hands of the Hull police. On May 13th a gang of six robbers stole $11,000 from the Standard bank of Canada. The night watchman saw six men inside and several more outside. He said he could identify some of the men if he ever saw them again. A reward of $5,000 was offered for their capture. A gang of traps was arrested by the Hull police some time ago, and Chief Genest believed from the records of the fellows they might be the bank robbers. He worked on the quiet for three months. The traps were photographed and pictures sent to the bank authorities. Some of the fellows were identified by the watchman. They are James Collins, William Hastings, John Murray, William Gilmour, Patrick Ryan, Albert Lyster, James Logan, William Johnson, Richard Wilson and Thomas Clifford. The secret about the matter will only be revealed in court, when the parties from the bank are expected shortly in Hull to make a more complete identification of the men.

Engineer Causes a Collision.

Winnipeg, Aug. 18.—The Imperial Limit of express from the east, which was delayed by a head-on collision with an east bound tea and silk express, arrived in the city Wednesday afternoon. The accident occurred while all on board were sleeping at 2 a.m. Tuesday. The limited was 55 miles west of Sudbury, running on schedule time, when a silk and tea special was discovered making the siding at Geneva Lake. Before the train could be stopped the two engines had crashed into each other and Dan Fairbairn, the engineer on the limited, was killed. The fireman of the express, seeing that a collision was inevitable, jumped from the cab and Fairbairn after standing in his place until the two engines were almost together, reversing the engine and putting on the emergency brake, followed the fireman's example and in some way lit on his back on the tender. He was picked up with his back broken and died within a few minutes. The special freight comprised 16 heavily laden cars and the tender of the locomotive was pitched up on top of the car behind, while two box cars behind were smashed. The locomotives of both trains were badly wrecked, also the baggage car of the limited, but the crews of the trains, with the exception of Fairbairn, escaped uninjured. The passengers on the limited say they never felt the shock. A wrecking gang was dispatched to the scene of the accident at once, but it was nearly ten hours before the trains were ready to proceed. The two locomotives and the damaged cars were left on the road.

John M. King's Will.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—The will of the late Principal John M. King, D.D., of Manitoba college, formerly of Toronto, who died in Winnipeg in March last, was filed for probate yesterday. The estate is valued at $11,590, consisting of Haverhill Hall, 350 Jarvis street, worth $5,300, and bank shares and stocks worth $3,290. All is left to his daughter Helen, subject to a bequest of $1,000 to Manitoba college for what is to be known as the John Ralph King scholarship; a bequest of $300 to the Winnipeg General hospital; of $200 yearly to Isabel Watt and four bequests of $50 and one of $50. The Manitoba Trusts company are the executors.

Medicine Hat, Aug. 18.—There died at Medicine Hat yesterday, Mr. D. Sissions, one of the old pioneers of Manitoba. Mr. Sissions settled at Portage la Prairie in 1868, where he remained till 1883, coming to Medicine Hat in that year. His body goes east to Portage la Prairie for interment.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—The directors of the Jacques Cartier bank have decided to sell all the branches of the bank as soon as satisfactory arrangements can be made. Several have already been disposed of. Business will soon be resumed in the central office.

Montreal, Aug. 18.—Interest in the affairs of the suspended Banque Ville Marie was revived yesterday by the news of the arrest of the president, W. Weir; one of the directors, R. F. Smith, and the ex-accountant, F. Lemieux.

THE WHITE COCKADE.

By JAMES WORKMAN.

(Copyright, 1899, by the Author.)

Now, what was I to do? As I have said, I was no Jacobite. To interfere in the matter was against both my principles and my interest. If it became known that I had assisted the prince to escape, I should embroil myself with the government and ruin my career, if I did not risk my neck. But yet—ah, well, what man with any heart could listen to the cold dictates of prudence when moved by the sight of that innocent child's face, quivering with pain and shame, and those sweet, tear-filled eyes gazing beseechingly into mine? I may have been rash, disloyal, what you will, but I could not do it. God knows that, however foolish I may have thought her in the past, I loved the girl infinitely more, if that were possible, for her fidelity to the unfortunate prince in his hour of need. Yet I knew well that it was a desperate business and like to end badly for both of us, however it ended.

"If we think of any plan that has the least chance of success, I will do what I can to help you, Kate," I answered. "But for my part I can see no way but one, and that is to intercept him before he reaches the house. For God's sake, let us get out of this vile place! The air chokes me. It reeks of treachery. Come, get your cloak, and—"

"Hush!" she exclaimed suddenly. In the silence that followed I heard steps on the path outside, a loud knock and then the tramping of feet and the sound of voices in the hall. Kate sprang to the door which commanded a partial view of the hall and, opening it cautiously, looked out.

"Is it the prince?" I asked breathlessly.

"No," she faltered, "it is Andrew Macintyre, with half a dozen strange men—coarse, brutal looking wretches, with swords and pistols. Oh, Frank, what is to become of you? He hates you. He told me so today. He threatened that he would do to you if I did not give you up. Fraser will tell him you are here, and he—may kill you. Hush! I hear his foot on the stairs. He is coming here. You must hide—somewhere—anywhere—in the cupboard—quick, get into the cupboard."

"But Fraser will tell him I am here," I protested.

"Perhaps not," she exclaimed, pushing me in her excitement toward the door of the cupboard. "They are not so friendly as they appear to be. Quick—quick—he is coming."

I yielded reluctantly to her entreaties, I stepped inside, leaving the door slightly ajar so that I might see what passed. Then she sat down at a harpsichord and began to sing a rollicking Jacobite ballad in a gay and gallant way as the prince had been present with all the clans around him.

She was still singing when the door opened, and Andrew Macintyre came in. "Ah, Kate," said he, and I fancied I could detect a faint sneer in the tones of his voice. "I thought I heard you singing. Upon my soul, your voice sends the blood dancing through my veins. 'Tis more inspiring than a bugle call. If you would ride at the head of the troops singing your battle songs, with the white cockade on your breast, the king would soon enjoy his own again. With your voice to lead him to victory who would not live or die with Charlie?"

His eyes dwelt on her with a look that made me grind my teeth and grip the hilt of my sword. I would have given all I possessed to spring forward and settle the matter with the cold steel, but I knew that with a shout he could bring his cutthroats upon me, and my death would leave Kate defenseless in his hands.

Kate was ever quick-witted and ready of speech, but the sure knowledge of his treachery and the tragic situation in which she was placed seemed to freeze the words on her lips. She bent her white face over the harpsichord, and I saw her fingers trembling as they wandered over the keys. I think 'twas the bitterest moment of my life. I could neither get her away from the house nor warn the prince. I was not, I think, devoid of courage and enjoyed some reputation as a swordsman, and yet I was absolutely helpless. I could do nothing that was not utterly reckless and foolhardy, and stood there grinding my teeth in impatient fury while this loathsome spy and traitor made love to my betrothed.

Macintyre glanced at the clock. "Some few minutes to the hour at which his royal highness promised to be here," he continued in the same tone of subdued mockery. "Let us have another song, Kate. Let us have something to stir the blood, something about the gathering of the clans and the fluttering of the kilts, the flash of the broadsword and the skirl of the pipes. 'Twill raise the prince's spirits if he hears you. He was dashed by the coldness with which he was received at Lady Primrose's. We must give him a heartier reception tonight."

I think that the malicious twinkle in his eyes that he knew she suspected him and was playing with her as a cat with a mouse. Her cheeks flushed, and I thought she was about to give an angry reply, but with an effort she controlled herself and began to play a spirited prelude. But at that moment he held up his hand.

"Hush," he said, "I hear voices at the door. I think he must have arrived."

He turned away and stepped hurriedly to the window. In a moment Kate was on her feet, darted an appealing look at me, pointed to him and rushed to the door. I was in the room, sword in hand, before she reached it. But I was no quicker than he. I saw the gleam of his eyes and the flash of his sword before I was half way across the room. He parried the savage lunge I made at him and, leaping aside with the agility of a cat, rushed after Kate. Through the door and along the passage she went like a deer, he close on her heels and I on his. When she reached the stairs, she seemed to fly down them, and beyond her I caught a glimpse of the prince stepping into the hall.

"Go back!" she cried. "Go back! You are betrayed! Go back!" But she was too late. Clang went the heavy door, out from the adjoining rooms sprang half a dozen men with naked swords, and there in the middle of the hall, surrounded by a ring of steel, with the sobbing girl at his feet, caught like a rat in a trap, stood Prince Charlie.

Whig as I was, I cannot describe the sick feeling of pity and shame that overcame me at the sight. "Would have been a fitting death for the hero of Prestonpans and Falkirk to die sword in hand on the battlefield, but it was heart-breaking to see him betrayed and trapped by this scurvy crew of spies and traitors, and still poorer was the sight of the innocent child who was sobbing at his feet, crushed with shame that her devotion to his cause should have been made the bait to lure him to the scaffold.

He stood perfectly still, pale and with flashing eyes, but without a trace of fear. "Well, Mr. Macintyre," said he, "this is a strange welcome. May I beg you to inform me what I am to understand by it?"

Brought face to face with the man he had betrayed, even Macintyre lost his nerve, though he tried to brazen it out. "You may understand"—he began, and then his eyes fell and he looked moodily at the floor. "I think the situation explains itself," he said gloomily.

The prince drew himself up and looked at Macintyre with unutterable scorn and contempt.

"It does indeed," said he. "I have had to do with spies and traitors before, but never with one who invited me to his house as a guest in order to betray me. But this time, thank God, you have overestimated your cunning and my simplicity. You fool, do you suppose that I have walked blindfold into your clasp?"

Almost before I realized what had taken place I saw Macintyre turn white, and heard the sword clattering from his nerveless fingers, while his accomplices glanced round about seeking a way of escape. All eyes had been fixed on the prince, so that the men who now stood sword in hand at every door and at the head of every passage had come upon us unheard and unseen.

At a glance I recognized the faces of several well-known Jacobite gentlemen, both Englishmen and highlanders, and I saw at once that Macintyre had been cleverly caught in his own trap, entangled in the very meshes of the web he had spun to entrap the prince. These were the men who had lurked in the garden, who had stealthily entered the house, and the author of this plot within a plot—Donald Fraser—who had betrayed the betrayer, was now leering triumphantly at Macintyre from his post behind the door. Macintyre caught a glimpse of his grinning face, and his eyes gleamed with diabolical fury.

"You bound!" he exclaimed, "this is your work."

"Yes," said the prince coolly, "you forget what most of your kind would do well to remember, that it is as easy to set a spy upon a spy as upon an honest man, and much easier to find those who will betray him. I pretended to fall into your trap in order to trap you, lost good friends of mine should suffer in future by your treachery. It would be but bare justice to hang every man of you, but your lives shall be spared for the present if you instantly lay down your arms. Take their weapons, gentlemen."

The conspirators were so thoroughly cowed that they gave up their arms without a struggle. In the meantime Kate had whispered a few words to the prince, and he beckoned me toward him.

"I find that I owe you a debt of gratitude for your conduct this night," he said graciously, "and I sincerely trust that at some future time it may lie within my power to repay you."

Then he turned to Kate. "As for such loyalty as yours, Miss Gordon," he said, "a poor exile has no fitting reward. Nay, I think the only reward I can give you is to release you from further service to a race so unfortunate as mine. Pardon me."

He took the white cockade from her breast and handed it to me.

"See," he continued, "I give it into the keeping of your future husband, and I pray that you will not wear it again unless he himself pins it upon your breast. My errand here is accomplished, and tonight I leave London. Sloth and avarice have eaten away the loyalty of those who should have flocked to my standard. They wish to save their estates and will not thrust their own heads into danger, though they would be willing enough that the poor highland lads should leave their bones on another Culloden moor. But I will have no more useless bloodshed, please God, and so sail for France till better times. Farewell."

Kate could not speak for the sob that choked her, and I—well, I feel no shame at the confession—kneelt and kissed his hand with tears in my eyes. 'Twas the last we ever saw of Prince Charlie, the bravest and most unfortunate of all the Stuarts.

Toward Macintyre and his accomplices I behaved with his usual clemency. They were released when it was too late for them to interfere with his departure.

I have still the white cockade Kate wore on her breast that night, but I think even she has lost all desire to wear it again, for if what we hear of the once gallant prince be true his best friends might wish that he had died at the head of his brave highlanders on Culloden moor.

CARRYING ON.

Some of the Curious Ways Some People Have of Doing It.

Few classes of men have a better chance to see the queer ways people have of carrying on than the news-sellers. A Fifth street man told a number of good stories along this line. It would appear that frequenters of such resorts are innately averse to carrying their coin after any manner known to the balance of mankind. "That man who just left here is entitled to a premium," said the news-seller in question, "for days ago 'Ordered a glass of apollinaris and drank it as if he was thirsty. Then he reached down on the inside of his vest and pulled out what looked to be a big roll of newspaper. Around the roll was wrapped a long piece of twine."

"I thought it was going to be made the victim of a bunco game until the man began to unwrap the roll. He took off at least six newspapers before he got down to what he was after. This proved to be a $1 bill. He pulled it out of the bunch of newspapers and laid it on the counter. I took out a ticket and handed him the change. Carefully counting it, the man slowly and deliberately wrapped the coin up in the newspaper again and went out. I haven't seen him since, and I don't want to. Life is too short to wait for his unwrapping process. Another instance, almost as aggravating, was that of a young fellow who happened in the other day. He had several friends with him and ordered a round."

"I served it, and when the time came for paying the young fellow went through his pockets vigorously. Then his face grew scarlet. 'I had some money,' Oh, I know where it is now. 'Sitting down on a chair, he pulled off one of his shoes and from the bottom thereof fished out a $5 bill. The crowd that was with him laughed loudly, and the little episode cost him another round. Lots of people come here who carry their money in one of the upper pockets of their vests, and still others who think the inside band of their hats affords the best place to carry their bank bills. And so it goes. Some day I expect to have a man order a drink and pull the money out of his mouth with which to pay for it. If he does, I won't let on but that it is the regular thing."

JARGON OF THE STAGE.

English Obscure as the Lingo of the American Baseball Field.

Pretty nearly every profession boasts a jargon of its own, and the baseball field is no exception. The most boastful in this matter. There is a neatness and directness about the vocabulary of the stage which does not characterize that of any other institution.

What, for instance, could be more directly impressive to the audience of an evening's audience or the receipts to accrue therefrom than the phrase of "playing to the gas?" It is used in the general sense in reference to small audiences, but strictly it means that an audience was only large enough to render receipts sufficient to pay the bill for the evening's lighting.

An actor would infinitely rather play to a "house full of paper." The latter phrase means an audience admitted mostly by free passes.

"I've got a shop in a fine crowd," exclaims Miss Tootle, "but I don't like to 'All the fat of the book, three curtains and the tag. We open on Tuesday, and I'm awfully fluffed. Jessie's walking on."

To any one inexperienced in the slang of the stage the above speech would not convey much. Translated into "common or garden" language, Miss Tootle's meaning is that she has obtained an engagement in a fine company, that she has to deliver the most telling speeches in the play, that the performance commences on Tuesday and that she is not sure of her lines.

"Sure," evidently her dearest friend—has a part which she cannot act.

It must be admitted that Miss Tootle is concise. She might add that "except for a 'shop' (part or engagement) in a 'fit up' (a company traveling with its own scenery) she has been 'resting,' which means, in the slang, that she has been out of an engagement—London Mail.

Sociable.

Some of the sentimental considerations that may influence an elector are suggested in this anecdote from a new book, "Irish Life Language."

A political candidate, on paying a second visit to the house of a doubtful voter of the peasant class, was very pleased, but somewhat surprised, on hearing from the elector that he would support him.

"Glad to hear it," said the candidate. "I thought you were against me."

"I was at first," rejoined the peasant. "When the other day ye called here and stood by that pigsty and talked for half an hour ye didn't budge me an inch."

"But after ye had gone away, sor, I got to thinking ye'd be back for me, and over the rail and scratched the pig's back till he lay down with the pleasure of it. I made up my mind then that when a man was so sociable as that with a poor fellow's crature I wasn't the boby to vote again him."

London Kill Me Quick.

On Saturday night in the London streets one meets numbers of men walking automatically, their teeth clinched, their look fixed. They do not sing or speak a word, but suddenly fall like logs. It is a miracle that they do not fracture their skulls on the pavement. To these men, in the bars of virtuous England, has been dispensed for the sum of one penny a pint of an atrocious mixture composed of the dregs of bottles and casks of gin, whisky, absinthe, etc. I do not know the name of this horrible concoction, but I have seen its terrible effects.—Paris Petit Journal.

YE CALNDAR OF FOOLS.

When winter comes with frosty cheer And knots of blizzards pierce There also comes the fool who states Too near the danger sign.

When leafy spring ends winter's reign, With blossoms in the air, She brings the fool who dotes too soon His winter underwear.

When summer comes and perfumes sweet On balmy zephyrs float, There also lingers in her train The fool who rocks the boat.

When autumn paints the woodland glades In gorgeous gold and red, There comes the fool who can't tell game From his companion's head.—Melanburgh Wilson in Brooklyn Life.

THE RED HAIRD GIRL.

An Instance Where a Man Found It Safe to Go Back on His Girl.

It happened two years ago, just before I was a qualified doctor and M. A. I spent a great part of that summer's vacation at Ballater, because Letty and her mother had gone there for a change, and as Letty and I were engaged, naturally we liked spending most of our time together.

About the 24th of September, however, we all returned to Aberdeen, and I resolved to spend the remaining part of my holidays in the Buchan district, where I had a few friends. So, after saying "good-bye" to Letty, I left for the train for Mintlaw, where I was met by a friend, who, for convenience sake, I shall call George White.

Old Deer, which is near Mintlaw, was an admirable center for a cyclist, and as the weather grew so good, White and I took long spins together. It was toward the end of harvest, and although "stooks" were still standing in a few fields, most farmers had already finished leading, and it was assuredly the time for "meal and ale."

Now, I had never been at one of those functions, so after spending a delightful week at Old Deer I prolonged my visit for a day to go to Barnhill's harvest home. George promised there would be some fun. Barnhill was one of the largest farmers in the district, and his "meal and ale" was to be a big affair.

The evening came. We drove over rather late, and when we got there the dancing had begun. A wooden floor had been laid in the immense barn, the walls were decorated with flags and flowers and ripe corn, and at one end was a raised platform for the fiddlers. At the other end of the room a huge pole had been stuck up, on the top of which was the "dyanck sheaf," all dressed with bright scarlet and blue ribbons.

White introduced me to his host, a short, jovial looking man, to his two daughters, Misses Kate and Emily Smith, and several others, but directly I entered the barn I became conscious of a girl with flaming red hair dressed in pale blue muslin, who, although dancing at the time, kept looking at me with her great eyes till I felt a queer thrill go through me and a feeling as if somewhere before I had seen that girl.

I was standing by Miss Smith. I tried to give her all my attention. "You know, Mr. Keith, this is really the servants' night," she was saying, "but we always invite a few of our own friends too. Then we dance here till 12 o'clock, and after 12 father makes it a rule that the rest of us must go into the house and leave the others to enjoy it up till 5 in the morning and sometimes even till 6."

"Tell me," I said more hurriedly than politely, "who is that lady dressed in pale blue dancing with the tall, dark gentleman?"

Miss Smith laughed slightly. "The tall gentleman is my brother and the girl my dearest school friend, Miss Nora Stuart. Shall I introduce you?"

Although fascinated in a certain way, I thought of Letty and did not particularly wish an introduction, but now I could not well refuse, and soon I was dancing with the red-haired girl.

There was an indescribable something that made her very attractive and kept me by her side, and again and again as she talked she made me think that I had met and known her somewhere before, but memory would not help me. And so on I did not think of that, but felt very happy to live in the present and know her and talk to her now.

The hours flew swiftly by. I had danced with her nearly the whole evening and scarcely left her side. Twelve o'clock came. Miss Stuart and I were in the garden. The harvest moon was shining brightly and from the barn came the distant music of the fiddles and concertinas. We walked along the narrow path. "The roses are almost over," she said. "Oh, no," I said, "the roses are just at the height of summer. It is a yellow one. Let me get it for you."

"Thank you!" She stuck it in her dress. "You know," she said laughingly, "I am fond of roses, but I can never wear them."

Artlessly she touched her hair, and I understood. It was not even auburn—it was decidedly red—but just then I thought it the most beautiful I had ever seen.

"It is a great misfortune," she went on. "The color of the roses is a blessing. I hastened to reply. 'That is just my favorite color, and I think it very beautiful, and I also think a blue muslin gown the prettiest in all the world when a certain person wears it.'"

Letty was far away. I had completely forgotten her existence. "You flatterer!" she said, smiling. Then she tapped her foot impatiently upon the ground and frowned. "But men are all alike. They have no constancy, no stability. They are tossed about by every wind that blows, taken by every fresh face they see. I have no patience with them—none! Come, let us go into the house."

I caught her hand. Goodness knows what I was about to say, but just then we heard footsteps, and some of the others approached us, and I thought of Letty, and felt thankful for their presence. "And thank you for your presence," said Letty. "You flatterer!" she said, smiling. Then she tapped her foot impatiently upon the ground and frowned. "But men are all alike. THE GRIST MILL PROPOSAL.

Some years ago a movement was set on foot to organize a joint stock company for the purpose of erecting and operating a flour mill at Moose Jaw; but owing to what seemed to be insurmountable difficulties the scheme fell through and we are still without a mill. But during recent years considerable interest has been taken in the matter. About a year ago Mr. McFarlane, of Jamestown, Ont., submitted a proposition to the town Council asking for a bonus as an inducement to build a mill at Moose Jaw; but—as we said at the time—the aldermen very wisely refused to grant the request, in the first place because the town could not afford to make the investment, in the second place because a town that offers a bonus confesses that its facilities, inducements and opportunities for the proposed enterprise are inferior; and the enterprise that demands a bonus confesses that the conditions under which it will operate are unfavorable.

But Moose Jaw wants a mill and we are not likely to get one unless there is some financial aid secured or special inducement offered. Since the above scheme was submitted to the Council, another proposition has been made. This time it is the well known local firm of E. Simpson & Co. who have come forward with a scheme, the provisions of which we publish in another column. In short, Mr. Simpson's proposition is this: That if the town Council grant him exemption from taxation for twenty years on the mill property, and the people of the district subscribe $10,000 and allow him the privilege of paying it back, without interest, by grinding their wheat, his firm will build and operate a fifty-barrel flour mill.

Mr. Simpson's request seems to be a reasonable one. The firm is one of the pioneer institutions of Moose Jaw, and if any encouragement is to be given we believe in letting the local man have the preference. To grant exemption from taxation for a reasonable number of years would not burden the taxpayers to any alarming extent, and would be fully offset by the benefit a mill would be to the town; while those who advanced money would have the mill property as first security, and would eventually be paid in work.

It is almost superfluous to dwell on the advantages to be derived from having this industry represented in our midst, but in view of the proposition that has been made, it will probably be in place to point out a few of the greatest benefits. In the first place we would like to say what benefits the farmer should also help the town. At present the farmer has either to buy the product of outside mills or haul his grain to Regina, which means a round trip of eighty miles and three or four days travel. There are quite a number of farmers who take the trip and every year the number is growing. This helps to draw trade to Regina, but if we had a mill the trade would come to Moose Jaw. Then a flour mill would be an advertisement and an inducement for new settlers to come into the district and help build up the town.

But the greatest benefit would be to the farmer. It would be money in his pocket. At present he has either to take the trip to Regina or pay cash for the product of other mills. To illustrate the benefit the farmer will derive Mr. Simpson figures it out in this way: Take, say, 100 bushels (or 8000 lbs.) of wheat, which will make

3,700 lbs. of flour, which retails, say, at $2.15..... $ 79.35
1,200 lbs. of bran at 90c..... 10.80
100 lbs. of shorts at $1.00..... 10.00
100 lbs. waste.....

3,000 lbs. would cost..... $100.35

Therefore if a farmer bought the product of 100 bushels of wheat it would cost him $100.35. Now suppose he takes

WAGHORN'S GUICE TO TRAVEL 50c yb

his 100 bushels of wheat to the grist mill he would figure it out in this way:—

100 bushels of wheat at, say, 50c..... $50.00
Grinding same at 30c per cwt..... 18.00

Total cost..... $68.00

Subtract $68.00 from $100.35 and we have a saving to the farmer of $31.80 for the product of every 100 bushels of wheat he consumes.

Whether or not the capacity of the proposed mill is large enough to meet the requirements of the not far distant future, or whether one should be built with a capacity to warrant the exportation of flour, we are not prepared to say. But the proposition has been endorsed by the Moose Jaw Agricultural Society. Mr. Simpson will shortly solicit the assistance asked for, and the success or failure of the scheme will be determined by the support he receives. One of the advantages subscribers will have is that their grinding will be done for 30c. per cwt. instead of 40c., which will be charged non-subscribers.

THE AGRICULTURAL SHOW.

The result of the fourteenth annual exhibition of the Moose Jaw Agricultural Society, held on the 9th inst., must convince any observant person that the day of the small show is over. In future, if the district is to maintain its reputation for agriculture, the Agricultural Society must either branch out and hold a show that will be of some educational value to the district, or else devote its energies to some other object provided for by the Ordinance under which it exists, such as the introduction of pure bred stock, or of new varieties of seed grain, upon institute work or the destruction of noxious weeds. But it will indeed be a pity if a town the size of Moose Jaw, with the surrounding district so well settled and prosperous, cannot have an up-to-date agricultural society and an annual exhibition that will be a credit to any community. The only justification for the holding of an exhibition is its educational value, and unless the prize list is generous enough to invite competition and the show of such a nature as to afford facilities for comparing the products of different localities, this result cannot be attained. If the Moose Jaw and Regina agricultural societies could amalgamate and hold an exhibition at each place alternately we believe the undertaking could be made a success. More substantial assistance could be obtained from both the Dominion and North-West Governments, the membership would be larger, and with what would be derived from gate receipts and other sources of revenue, the society could offer a prize list that would invite competition and there would be some glory and benefit in capturing a prize.

This is what THE TIMES would like to see done, for we believe that the Moose Jaw district can hold its own with anything that is produced in the agricultural line. Regina has already the necessary buildings and grounds for the holding of an exhibition on a large scale, and through a uniting of certain interests, and with a comparatively small outlay, Moose Jaw could also have buildings and grounds equally as good. The interests we refer to are those of the Town Council, the Moose Jaw Agricultural Society, the Moose Jaw Hockey and Skating Club Co., the Curling Club and the Turf Club. We understand that a movement is already spoken of which will unite these interests.

It is this way: The town Council have under their control Crescent Park. Hitherto it has never been utilized for anything. Through the permission of the council the skating and curling rinks have occupied the market square for the past three years, but the term has not expired, and some time in the near future a new site will have to be looked for. The Crescent would be a fairly convenient site and it is said that the Council might grant the clubs the privilege of building there in lieu of the use

SOME persons say it is natural for them to lose flesh during summer.

But losing flesh is losing ground. Can you afford to approach another winter in this weakened condition?

Coughs and colds, weak throats and lungs, come quickest to those who are thin in flesh, to those easily chilled, to those who have poor circulation and feeble digestion.

Scott's Emulsion

of cod liver oil with hypophosphites does just as much good in summer as in winter. It makes flesh in August as well as April. You certainly need as strong nerves in July as in January. And your weak throat and lungs should be healed and strengthened without delay.

of the buildings during the summer months. The Agricultural Society should not object to fencing in the ground, if by so doing they could provide a first class exhibition ground. With a race track for the Turf Club and a grand stand for the spectators, the grounds would be completed, a successful agricultural exhibition could be held and the interests of all parties served. Of course the movement is only in embryo as yet, but the idea is a feasible one and is therefore worth considering.

BOARD OF TRADE.

For the past few years THE TIMES has been advocating the formation of a Board of Trade for Moose Jaw, but up to the present without any good results—at least not the result hoped for. But as each year goes by we become more thoroughly convinced of the need of some organization to arouse public interest in our district and direct enthusiasm along the most effective lines. The prospects for a bountiful harvest throughout the Territories this year is now almost assured, and next spring there should be such an influx of settlers as the country has not yet experienced. Moose Jaw does not want all of them, but we should have our share. This we will not get unless some united and well directed effort is put forth. We have here as good a district as can be found in any part of the North-West, and the general success that has attended pioneer efforts should be an inducement for new settlers. Our district is a large one and there is plenty of land yet open for homesteading—land alongside of which good crops have been grown for the past fifteen years. But we don't let the intending immigrant know of this, and he is drawn to another district through the influence of organized effort. In fact nearly every town of any importance in the North-West has a Board of Trade, most of them incorporated bodies, in which the most public-spirited citizens take an active interest. In some of the towns to an outsider it would appear that the Boards of Trade are of almost more importance than the municipal councils. They take the initiative in many matters which it would probably be out of place for councils to touch. But there are other affairs which crop up in all towns where an influential Board of Trade, working in conjunction with a municipal council, can be of great service. There is no question whatever about one thing, and that is about the usefulness and desirability of having a Board of Trade in every town which lays claim to any degree of progressiveness. We should have a Board of Trade in Moose Jaw, and no doubt if the matter is approached in the way it should be—with good citizenship and a real interest in the town's welfare in the foreground—there would be no trouble at all in effecting organization. There are, we believe, plenty of men in this town who believe thoroughly in its future, who would be anxious to associate themselves with such an organization. Membership in an active Board of Trade gives every citizen an opportunity to take an interest in the affairs of his town. Let steps be taken to organize the Board of Trade.

THE BONDSMEN BILL.

The following is the full text of the bill introduced by Hon. Mr. Sifton and passed by Parliament respecting securities for seed grain indebtedness:

Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and House of Commons of Canada, enacts as follows:

1. The Governor-General in Council may discharge from liability persons who are liable to the Crown as sureties upon bonds given to secure re-payment for seed grain furnished by the Crown to persons in the North-West Territories in every case where, upon inquiry, it is shown to the satisfaction of the Minister of the Interior that land owned by or entered as homesteaded by the primary debtor is liable and is in the opinion of the said Minister sufficient security for the sum owned by the primary debtor.

Referring to the proposed elevator commission, the Moosomin Spectator says: "If the complaints were confined to a small section of the Territories or Manitoba, there might be some justification for ignoring them so long. But the dissatisfaction is general. The whole grain-growing part of the West has spoken. Glen Adelaide has spoken with no uncertain sound. The farmers of Moosomin district have also put themselves on record, and in reply to the circular containing the resolutions adopted by the Moosomin farmers, replies have come from all quarters in favor of those resolutions. These men who are complaining are not boobies. They are not kicking simply for the pleasure of kicking. They have grievances which touch their pockets, and they naturally rebel against being subjected to conditions which by regulations compel them to submit. Then as a sop to the grain growers, a promise to appoint a commission is given. Another season's crop has to be marketed, another season's submission to market regulations which may be as severe as last year and other years, must be endured."

The Commercial on Saturday last said: The wheat trade has been showing a more confident tone this week. The primary receipts in the States have fallen off greatly, and are running at less than on corresponding days last year, and the visible supply records a decrease on the week instead of an increase. The world's crop for the present year is estimated at less than last year's by about 350,000,000 bushels, while the requirements of importing countries will be no smaller than for last year. The conclusion is therefore evident that the market value of the current crop should average higher than that of 1898, and that growers and holders have the making of the price.

Premier Greenway has issued a letter stating that there are 35,000 farmers in Manitoba, and that if even every fifth farmer required a man it would take seven thousand hands to supply the same. In many wheat growing districts every farmer will require one, and in some instances two or three more men, and although twenty-five thousand farmers may not require any help, it would take ten thousand men to supply the remainder at one to each farmer. At least three thousand men can get employment with the farmers in the Territories.

The man with a weight on his leg can't hope to win in the race. A man with a weight on his health can't expect to compete in life and business with those who are not handicapped. If his brain is heavy and his blood sluggish, because of constipation, he will not succeed in doing anything very well. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all sickness. Symptoms of it are: sallowness, listlessness, poor appetite, bad taste in the mouth, dizziness, biliousness and lassitude. Constipation can be cured easily and certainly by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are not at all violent in their action and yet they are more certain than many medicines which are so strong that they put the system all out of order. The great advantage of the Pleasant Pellets is that they cure permanently.

THE LIBERAL RECORD

MR. FIELDING'S REPLY TO MR. FOSTER.

The "Monetary Times" on the Liberal Railway Policy—The Value of the Improvement—
The Government Can Appeal
to the Country with Perfect Confidence.

OTTAWA, August 19.—Following the example set by himself last year, Mr.
Geo. E. Foster, leader pro tem of the Opposition, today presented to the House
a resolution which, it was stated, would occupy the whole of the last morning
of the session in a speech which has been dignified by Opposition papers by the name of "an arraignment" of the Government. His speech was lengthy, discussing and full of generalities; it contained nothing new, and offered no argument of the charges and innuendoes it contained than the personal views of the speaker, which are of course entitled to every consideration and respect, but which carry no value as evidence of the truth of the allegations.

It is scarcely worth while to weary readers with a reiteration of the charges contained in the speech—they have been gone over so often—more particularly as one is forced by Mr. Foster's own conduct to the conclusion that he has fully realized the unsubstantial
character of his indictment, for he repeated his curious tactics of a year ago
and occupied so much time that it was impossible for Mr. Fielding to offer an effective reply before the House was summoned to attend His Excellency
during the ceremony of prorogation.

MR. FIELDING'S REPLY.

However, the Minister of Finance succeeded in making remarkably good use of the short hour that was left him. He pointed out that wide differences of opinion existed in the Opposition ranks
upon many of the questions which Mr.
Foster had touched. He reminded the House that in more than one instance
Sir Charles Tupper, the recognized leader of the party, had definitely expressed approval of the very policy which Mr.
Foster had now undertaken to condemn.
Summing up the situation, he pointed out that the policy of the Liberal party was declared in a formal way. In the convention which was held in Ottawa in 1893 a certain set of resolutions was passed. These were the policy of the Liberal party, and by these the party was to be tried. In the whole history of parliamentary government in Canada
there never was a political party which carried out so fully, in so short a time,
the pledges which they went to the country. By one of these resolutions

Many of the North American Indians were magnificent specimens of physical manhood. This was not to be their active outdoor life. Nevertheless, they had the wisdom to know that an active life
in the open air alone would not keep a man healthy. They had their medicine-men, who gathered herbs from field and forest and brewed decoctions to assist the natural processes of the various vital organs.

Modern civilized men do not as a usual
thing recognize the same necessity until it is too late. They ignore medicine until they are within the grasp of some serious or fatal disease. The time for a man to begin taking medicine is when he begins to feel out of sorts. If a man is thoroughly
well and healthy he does not feel that way.
If he does feel that way he may be pretty sure that he is half sick. When he is half sick it does not take long before he is "whole sick." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the best medicine for a man when he is sick or getting sick. It puts him all right all round. It puts his stomach right to begin with, and that is the most important point. It puts his liver right, and that is the second most important point. It purifies his blood and fills it with the life-giving elements of the food
he eats, and that is the third most important point. It drives out all disease germs and impurities of every description. It makes the appetite keen and hearty. It is the greatest blood-purifier and blood-builder
cures 99 per cent of all cases of consumption, weak lungs, splitting of blood, disordered bowels and kindred ailments. Thousands who were given up to die have testified to their recovery under this marvelous medicine. An honest dealer will not urge a substitute for the sake of a little extra profit. He gives you what you ask for.

they had pledged themselves to reform
the tariff. The tariff had been reformed;
it had been reformed so that the Opposition, though they talked about it, though they denounced it, though they condemned it, had never dared to come before the House and place on the journals
of the House a resolution condemning it.
It had been reformed to the satisfaction of the Liberals of the country, while fair-minded Conservatives from ocean to ocean had acknowledged that the change
had proved to be adapted to the industries of the country and that under that change Canada had prospered as never before. The Liberals promised to introduce a redistribution bill; they had fulfilled that promise, and if that bill is not on the statute books of the country today it was not the fault of the Liberal party. We might the addition of a range of matters discussed at the Liberal convention at Ottawa, added Mr. Fielding, and it would be found in almost every instance the pledge given by the Liberal party has been fulfilled by them in letter
and in spirit.

A RECORD TO BE PROUD OF.

Not only do the facts fully justify this claim, but the history of the past three years records many an additional achievement which has been to the lasting benefit of the Dominion and of the Empire.
The bonds of Empire have been vastly strengthened by the introduction of the preferential tariff, by the introduction of Imperial penny postage, by the co-operation of Canada in the construction of the Pacific cable, by the intelligent and untiring efforts of the Minister of Agriculture and others to develop the British market for Canadian products, by the statesmanlike position taken by the Government in the Alaskan controversy and by the outspoken support given to the Imperial Government in its Transvaal policy and other matters. The domestic situation has been immeasurably improved by the settlement of the Manitoba School question and by the removal of all racial and religious friction, while the improvements introduced into every department of the administration—far too numerous to list in detail—mark an era of progress in the working of the Civil Service which has never been equalled
in the history of the Dominion. Such a record
as this offers full justification for the claim with which Mr. Fielding closed his address that the Government might appeal with perfect confidence to the country for its endorsement.

A PRACTICAL VIEW.

Nowadays when it is so difficult, indeed almost impossible, to secure the discussion of any important political question impartially and on its merits, it is both useful and pleasant to hear the opinion of those who are in no way prejudiced by political considerations, but who view current events from a practical, businesslike standpoint. Such, for example, is the position of the Monetary Times, which comments thus editorially
upon the railway subsidies: "A decided advance on the right path has been made. The country has been made increasingly prosperous by the aid of railway subsidies. These payments are no longer to be gifts, for which nothing but an indirect return in general benefits is expected; the railways are to pay in services—carrying the mails, Government stores and militia supplies,
which are now paid for in money. It will not always be possible, perhaps, for the Government to make as close a bargain as it could make if no advance by either party to the other were in question.

THE VALUE OF THIS CHANGE OF POLICY
is in fact that henceforth we are to deal
with railway companies on business principles, so much for so much. That is the general rule, any departure from which will be severely criticized. But we must not run away with the idea that this change of policy, important as it is,
will relieve the country from payment
for postal services to railways, which in the past have been largely built with donations of public money and public lands, and to which the Government is paying about $1,250,000 a year for services. On the old roads payment for postal services will have to be made as heretofore. But the essential thing is that the Government grants in aid of railways will cease to be bonuses for which nothing but an indirect return is expected. The Government advances will be made in expectation of a direct return. The qualified railway subsidies will thus be reduced to about $6,540,256—but if the Government gets the interest on that amount in the carriage of the mails, etc., railway bonuses
will change their nature, though they may retain the name, even after it ceases to be appropriate. The proper name would be Government advances, a remuneration for postal services rendered
being equal to the interest on the amount advanced."

Weyburn.

Weyburn, Aug. 18.—The residents of this place held their first picnic yesterday at the ranch of Dr. A. R. Tupper.
Dr. Tupper, of Moose Jaw, when the denominations represented in the settlement
united to give the Sunday School children a pleasant outing. But it is difficult to tell whether the children or grown-ups enjoyed themselves the most. To look on the happy gathering a stranger would imagine that this was one of the oldest districts in the West. The settlers of Yellow Grass turned out to a man, and were anxious to make the visitors feel at home. Among the sports of the day was a shoulder stone contest, in which Mr.
Fred Smith defeated Mr. Alex. Mitchell.
But perhaps the tug-of-war between Weyburn and Yellow Grass was the most exciting event of the day. The teams were captained by Messrs. Smith and McDougall respectively, and resulted in a victory for Weyburn. Weyburn now has a Justice of the Peace, Dr. R. M.
Mitchell's appointment having been announced. Mr. H. J. Powley, who has been appointed Game Guardian for this district.
Mark Devlin left this week on a visit to Ontario. Messrs. J. Park and G. M.
Gordon, of Indian Head, have returned home after a long party of intending settlers through this district. Weyburn has been famous for Local Improvement district and Mr. H. J. McGowan has been appointed Overseer. Some of our settlers, having completed their season's work,
are going to other districts to assist in harvesting operations. Mr. Jno. Fletcher had the misfortune to lose his pocket book, containing a sum of money and some valuable papers, while paying a few days ago.

Caron.

Caron, Aug. 18.—The implement men seem to be quite busy in our neighborhood just now. The Massey-Harris Co.
have shipped in a car of binders and Mr.
O. B. Fysh is putting them together and starting them. Messrs. John Hans and John Powell were the first to start harvesting. Both have new binders. Mr.
Hans a Massey-Harris and Mr. Powell a McCormick. They report first-class work done by the different machines. Mr.
Morris, a school teacher from Simcoe,
Ontario, commenced to teach in this district on Monday and reports having thirty scholars attending. Mr. Samuel Flack, who went to the hospital at Medicine Hat
for treatment some time since, returned home about a week ago and is able to be at work as usual. He speaks very highly of the doctors at the Hat. Mr. Crow, from Ontario, who is on a visit to his daughters, Mrs. McBride, Mrs. Banks, and Mrs. Waters, is we are sorry to say,
quite ill. Mr. H. G. Hurlbut, Mr. Powell moving into Moose Jaw shortly. Mr. and Mrs. Hurlbut will be greatly missed in the neighborhood, especially in the Sunday School. Yesterday afternoon a picnic social was held at the Summerside Presbyterian church, the proceeds being in aid of the Sunday School. There were games and running for the little folks,
and the attraction for the adults was football, two games being played in the afternoon. The first game was between Westview and Boharm, in which both teams were victorious, neither of them succeeding in scoring a goal. The second game was between Boharm and Caron,
the Caron boys winning by a score of 2 to 0. In the evening a concert was given in the church, when a good programme was rendered by local talent and was much appreciated by all present.

A DRUGGIST'S FAITH.

What's Most Called For Must Be the Best Remedy.

A druggist's testimony of the popularity of a remedy is the strongest kind of proof that it will do what it promises.
Paul Livingood, druggist, of Allentown, Pa., says: "Dr. Agnew's remedies have always been beyond my expectations. You can quote me for saying that Dr. Agnew's Catarrh Powder is the best seller of catarrh I have in the store. Many of my customers praise it highly." It is a great remedy and has a continental reputation.

Unusual P. O. Addresses.

Tourists travelling over the C.P.R., and especially those going via the Soo Line, usually have their mail matter directed to Moose Jaw in care of the C.P.R. hotel, and when taking their departure leave directions as to where it is to be forwarded. Some very unusual addresses are given, unusually long sometimes, and occasionally unusually hard to interpret. The man who left the following address had probably been a traveler of long experience, and as the result of many disappointments had lost all faith in the mail clerks. At any rate
he was going to make certain that his mail would reach him next time, so he wrote:

Mr. John
North America,
Canada,
Ontario,
Huron Co.,
Hallet,
Clinton,
Bass Line.

Another gentleman evidently possesses
a very different opinion of our mail
clerks, and he must have imagined them prize puzzle readers when he wrote the following address:—
and Wood
Miss Mary,
Mass.,
U.S.A.

It is said that "absence makes
the heart grow fonder," and we think it must have been true in the case of the poor fellow who wrote the following address:
Carry me on fast or slow,
To Oxford County, Ontario;
In Essex, Ontario, when let me lay
Until Miss Mary Jones takes me away.

HEART STARTS.

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart—One Dose Helped in Thirty Minutes—Two Bottles Cured.

Mrs. M. K. Calhoun, 29 Pacific Ave., Toronto, was troubled with heart disease
for years, could not stand on a chair without growing dizzy; going upstairs or being suddenly startled brought on palpitation, suffocation and intense pain under the shoulder blades. She tried many remedies—was treated by heart specialists without permanent relief. She procured and used Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart. She got relief within 30 minutes after the first dose, and before she had taken two bottles every symptom of heart trouble had left her.

How Baseball Started.

The devil was the first coach. He taught Eve when she stole first. Adam scored second. When Isaac met Rebecca at the well she was walking with a pitcher. Sampson struck out a good many times when he beat the Philistines.
Moses made his first run when he slew
the Egyptians. Cain made a base hit when he killed Abel. Abraham made a sacrifice. The prodigal son made a home run. David was a long distance thrower, and Moses shut out the Egyptians at the Red Sea.

LANGUID WOMEN

Take the Help That South American Nervine Offers and Be Well, Strong and Happy.

Miss Lucinda Butcher, of Teeswater,
Ont., had a very severe attack of malarial fever. It left her weak, languid, and threatened with nervous prostration.
South American Nervine was recommended to her and she tried it. After taking a few doses she felt great benefit.
She continued taking it until six bottles
were used, when, to her own words,
"I was completely restored to health. I can recommend it as a great remedy."

Carmel.

Carmel, Aug. 22nd.—On Thursday evening, Aug. 17th, the Carmel Sunday School, which is growing in numbers
and influence under the efficient management of Mr. Geo. Glover and an energetic staff of zealous teachers, held its first annual picnic and entertainment at the residence of Mr. Robert Moore. During the evening an appropriate programme
was rendered, which, with the bountiful supply of good things provided by the ladies, caused the evening to pass away
all too soon. Before the commencement of the programme proper Mrs. J. G.
Bayne entertained the company with a couple of instrumental pieces which were well received, after which a duet, entitled
"Be Careful," was creditably rendered
by Misses Lottie and Grace Moore. Miss Jennie Bayne received a hearty encore
for her recitation, and Miss Rhoda Morton's humorous recital pleased every-
one. "The Last Hunt," by the Superintendent was followed by a short address by Rev. A. Barner, who took as his theme "Thoughts in a Bugy." Mr.
Barner kept the interest of his hearers throughout, and being Mr. Elmitt's predecessor, is quite at home among Carmelites. Mr. and Mrs. E. Moore, Miss Henderson and Mr. Easton then appeared and rendered a quartette, which was followed by a mirthful parody by Rev. Mr. Irvine,
the popular pastor of Huron church.
"Rats," by Master A. Payne was par excellence, and the duet by the Misses Henderson was one of the prettiest items
on the programme. Messrs. Wm. Munns and W. H. McBeth, of Moose Jaw, gave a couple of college glee songs, and in response to an encore they "did it again."
Rev. Geo. Elmitt made an ideal chairman, and after the usual votes of thanks brought the entertainment to a close by the singing of the national anthem.

ONE WHO WAS THERE.

Hippelholme News.

Mrs. Geo. Tapley was the guest of Mr.
and Mrs. E. Lowe, of Homeleigh ranch, last week. A party of young people from town were out berry picking a few days ago. The young folks of Hippelholme school gave a fancy masquerade ball at the school house last week, which was not only a great success, but went to show what a happy life a rancher leads.
Everybody entered into the fun and a jolly time was the result. After the first part of the programme was concluded a slight ripple of vocal eloquence was heard upon the stillness of the night and Mrs. Tapley was heard to sing, "I Dreamt
I Dwelt in Marble Halls," after which a recitation from Miss Ida Lowe entitled,
"Tis Only a Mustard Plantain," was well received. Mr. Frank Martin's song, "I Had but Fifty Cents," caused much merriment.
Mr. Martin acted as master of ceremonies, the music being furnished
by Mr. A. R. Lowe, of Moose Jaw, and Ernest Woodward. Mr. Frank Martin had the misfortune to lose a valuable cow last week. The Misses Miller, Redford and McBeth were visiting friends
in this locality for a few days last week.
The residents in this district would like to see The Times man out this way. The north country is all right, but it's like the label on the bottle in comparison with south Moose Jaw. There is an abundance of hay this year, but owing to the water in the sloughs a great deal of it cannot be cut, but there will be plenty where there is no water. The stock in this settlement is looking fine and the ranchers are all happy.

Estevan.

Estevan, Aug. 19.—Everything is booming at this little burgh. Harvesting began a few days ago and W. J. Johnston has finished cutting, his crop turning out well. A. Preston has shipped a car of fat steers from the ranch of L. Livingstone to the Winnipeg market. Harold Scott has returned to Moose Jaw after visiting his parents here. Mr. H. Gocher has arrived from England to act as salesman for the Roche Perce Colliery Co.
Mr. Perceville has also arrived and will occupy the position of bookkeeper for the same company. The population of the district is rapidly increasing, five families
arriving during the past few weeks to reside in the town or neighborhood. The License Commissioners have recommended
the granting of licenses to the Queen's Hotel, Estevan, and the Richardson
House, North Portal. Mrs. F. J. Musgrove is visiting her parents, the Rev.
Mr. and Mrs. Hastings, of Victoria, B.C.

Whites of Eggs.

If a child needs nourishment, one of the simplest forms in which it can be taken is by the raw whites of eggs. These are nutritious and easily digested. The white is broken into a jar with what milk is desired and the two shaken thoroughly together. A pinch of salt may be added before drinking if preferred.

Would Go With Mamma.

Little Girl (to visitor)—My papa's a good man. He'll go to heaven, won't he?

Visitor—Oh, yes, indeed! And are you going to heaven too?

Little Girl—Oh, no! I'm going with mamma!—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

You need not cough all night and disturb your friends; there is no occasion for you running the risk of contracting inflammation of the lungs or consumption while you get Bickel's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. This medicine cures coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs and all throat and chest troubles. It promotes a free and easy expectation, which immediately relieves the throat and lungs from viscous phlegm.

Meanwhile the Patient is Recovering.

"What was the opinion of the doctors when Thummins called to his house the other day for a consultation on his case?"

"He hasn't found out yet. One was an allopath, one was a homeopath, another was an osteopathist, and the fourth was a Christian Scientist."—Chicago Tribune.

Nightmare.

"Help! help!" implored the millionaire, in agony. "Help! or I shall die!"

But the mendicants stood aloof and regarded him coldly.

"Why did you not think of this before you acquired your wealth?" they asked, evincing no pity for him, whatsoever.

Here the millionaire awoke. For after all it was only a nightmare.—Detroit Journal.

A WOMAN'S PLUCK WINS.

How a Drunken Husband Was Made a Sober Man by a Determined Wife.

She writes:—"I had for a long time been thinking of trying the Samaria Prescription treatment on my husband for his drinking habits, but I was afraid he would discover that I was giving him medicine and the thought unnerved me. I hesitated for nearly a week, but one day when he came home very much intoxicated and his week's salary nearly all spent, I threw off all fear and determined to make an effort to save our home from the ruin I saw coming, at all hazards. I sent for your Samaria Prescription and put it in his coffee as directed next morning and watched and prayed for the result. At noon I gave him more and also at supper. He never suspected a thing, and I then boldly kept right on giving it regularly as I had discovered something that set every nerve in my body tingling with hope and happiness, and I could see a bright future spread out before me—a peaceful, happy home, a share in the good things of life, an attentive, loving husband, comforts, and everything else dear to a woman's heart, for my husband had told me that whiskey was vile stuff and he was taking a dislike to it. It was only too true, for before I had given him the full course he had stopped drinking altogether, but I kept giving the medicine till it was gone, and then sent for another lot to have on hand if he should relapse, as he had done from his promises before. He never has, and I am writing you this letter to tell you how thankful I am. I honestly believe it will cure the worst cases."

We will send our pamphlet free, giving testimonials and all full information with directions how to take or administer Samaria Prescription. Correspondence considered sacredly confidential. Address The Samaria Remedy Co., Jordan street, Toronto, Ont.

Utilitarian Point of View.

"Can you tell me, my friend," said the gentleman to the keeper of a camel, "what the bump on that camel's back is for?"

"What's it for?"

"Yes, of what value is it?"

"Well, it's lots of value. The camel wouldn't be no good without it."

"Why not?"

"Why not? Yer don't suppose people 'ud pay to see a camel without a bump, do yer?"—London Telegraph.

Mrs. Winkley—Is your husband a brave man?

Mrs. Bronston—I should say he was. Why, once he jumped right in front of a swiftly moving train and saved a little child from what seemed certain death.

A Guaranteed Asthma Cure

Clarke's Kola Compound Cures.

Some years ago this would have been considered an impossibility, but Dr. Clarke has solved the problem since completing his experiments with the wonderful Kola plant in England. In December, 1893, he found that by combining extracts from the Kola with other extracts made from the Grendolia plant, which grows in California, that the compound would cure the severest cases of asthma. Upon experimenting in one of the leading London hospitals he found that 60 per cent. of the cases were cured in from 5 to 10 days' treatment. Since the introduction of this remedy into Canada in 1896 there have been over 200 cases cured in Canada alone. Mr. E. S. Hume, C. P. R. engineer, Western Division, writes: "I have been a great sufferer from asthma in its worst form for over twenty years, and never succeeded in getting anything to help me permanently until the C. P. R. doctor prescribed Clarke's Kola Compound for me in December 1895, when two bottles entirely cured me at least I have not since had any return of the asthma. I am personally acquainted with at least six persons who have been cured from asthma by Clarke's Kola Compound, and feel it my duty to recommend it to all who may be troubled with this disease."

A free sample bottle will be sent to any person troubled with asthma. Address: The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., sole Canadian agents, 21 Church street, Toronto, Ontario. Sold by all drug stores.

The Clever Spider.

"One of my friends was accustomed to grant shelter to a number of garden spiders under a vacant veranda and to watch their habits. One day a sharp storm broke out, and the wind raged so furiously through the garden that the spiders suffered damage from it, although sheltered by the veranda. The mainyards of one of these webs, as the sailors would call them, were broken so that the web was blown hither and thither, like a slack sail in a storm."

The spider made no fresh threads, but tried to help itself in another way. It let itself down from the ground by a thread and crawled to a place where lay some splintered pieces of a wooden fence, thrown down by the storm. It fastened a thread to one of the bits of wood, turned back with it and hung it with a strong thread to the lower part of its nest, about five feet from the ground. The performance was a wonderful one, for the weight of the wood sufficed to keep the nest tolerably firm, while it was yet light enough to yield to the wind and so prevent further injury. The piece of wood was about 2½ inches long and as thick as a goose quill.

"On the following day a careless servant knocked her head against the wood, and it fell down. But in the course of a few hours the spider mended her web, broke the supporting thread in two and let the wood fall to the ground."—Our Animal Friends.

Dublin Bootblacks, 1780.

Among the populace of Dublin in 1780, says the University Magazine, the shoeblacks were a numerous and formidable body. The polish they used was lampblack and eggs, for which they purchased all that were rotten in the markets. Their implements consisted of a three-legged stool, a basket containing a blunt knife, called a speed, a painter's brush and an old wig. A gentleman usually went out in the morning with dirty boots or shoes, sure to find a shoeblack sitting on his stool at the corner of the street. The gentleman put his foot in the lap of the shoeblack without ceremony, and the artist scraped it with his speed, wiped it with his wig and then laid on his composition as thick as black paint with his painter's brush.

The stuff dried with a rich polish, requiring no friction and little inferior to the elaborated modern dyes, save only the intolerable odors exhaled from eggs in a high state of putridity and which filled any house which was entered before the composition was quite dry and sometimes even tainted the air of fashionable drawing rooms. Polish shoes, we should mention, was at this time a refinement almost confined to cities, people in the country being generally satisfied with grease.

The Cause.

"Have you a last request to make?" asked the king of the Cannibal Islands, addressing the missionary.

The latter glanced at his august majesty (so called by reason of his sumner attire), and replied:

"Yes, Great One. When I left my native heath, I promised to write to a brother in this line of work and tell him how I liked the country. If your majesty pleases, I should like to write him a few lines."

The king reflected for a moment.

"There can be no objection to that, so far as I can see. You may proceed."

The missionary's hands were untied, and there upon a piece of bark he inscribed the following words:

Dear Friend—This is a delightful country. There is not one objection to it, and that, I fear, is the only account for the fact that I shall never see you again. There is plenty to eat here—but the cooking will kill me. Farewell.

This being finished, the king directed his slaves to stir the caldron and the preparation of the meal proceeded.

A Tale From the Mysterious East.

The last wonderful tale being told among the Burmese in Rangoon is concerning a monster egg. A few months ago near Shwelo the villagers heard a strange and mysterious voice in the jungle uttering in Burmese the words, "I am going to lay," which were repeated frequently several times a day for many days. Eventually the egg was laid, and its size is said to exceed that of ten large paddy baskets. Nobody was near this egg, from which now come the words, "I am going to hatch," also repeated many times every day.—Times of Burma.

The National Capitol.

North and south are joined in the material of the national capitol. The central building is constructed of Virginia sandstone painted white. The extensions are of Massachusetts marble, and 24 columns of the grand central portico are monoliths of Virginia sandstone 30 feet high, and 100 columns of the extension porticoes are of Maryland marble.

GARDEN NOTES.

In growing a good crop of onions, clean, thorough cultivation is essential. Powdered hellebore, dry or in solution, is a sure remedy for currant worms.

Other things being equal, a young tree will make better growth than an old one.

All buds on budded stock, except the one inserted, should be removed as they start to grow.

The finest varieties of fruit are usually the most difficult to produce and are the most profitable.

It is best to get a stout stake by each tomato vine and as the plants grow tie them to it. If allowed to lie down, the fruit will rot.

Eggplants need a warm, rich soil. Set the plants in rows two feet apart and the plant 18 inches apart in the row. Give clean cultivation.

The Man Who Remained.

There was a man who, after inheriting a fortune, thought it would be profitable to get away by himself and ruminate.

So he went into the woods, and he took his money and many books with him, and he ruminated and he studied, and in time he learned all his books by heart, and the philosophy of life was revealed unto him.

Now, when his beard was long and white and his back was bent, he took the wealth that he had carried into the woods with him and returned to the haunts of men to do good with it. But it came to pass that a sharp Aleck got the philosopher's money away from him, and the people booed when he applied to them for redress.

What shall it profit a man to know the philosophy of life and be not up to snuff?

Save the Babies.

Thousands of them die every summer who could be saved by the timely use of Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry.

There is not a mother who loves her infant but should keep on hand during the hot weather a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

There is no remedy so safe and so effective for the diarrhoea of infants, and none has the endorsement of so many Canadian mothers who have taken with confidence. One of these is Mrs. Peter Jones, Warkworth, Ont., who says: "I can give Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry great praise, for it saved my baby's life. She was cutting her teeth and was taken with diarrhoea very bad. My sister advised me to get Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I got a bottle and it cured the baby almost at once."

20 YEARS TORTURE.

A Belleville Lady, Whom Doctors

Failed to Help, Cured at Last by Doan's Kidney

Pills.

No one who has not suffered from kidney disease can imagine the terrible torture those endure who are the victims of some disorder of these delicate filters of the body. Mrs. Richard Rees, a well-known and highly respected lady of Belleville, Ont., had to bear the burden of kidney complaint for 20 years and now Doan's Kidney Pills have cured her when all else failed.

Her husband made the following statement of her case: "For 20 years my wife has been a sufferer from pain in the back, sleeplessness and nervousness and general prostration. Nothing seemed to help her. Doctors and medicines all failed, until we got a ray of hope when we saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised as a positive cure. 'She began to take them and they helped her right away, and she is now better in every respect. We can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers, for they seem to strike the right spot quickly, and their action is not only quick but it is permanent.'"

"I cannot say more in favor of these wonderful pills than that they saved my wife from lingering torture, which she had endured for 20 years past, and I sincerely trust that all sufferers will give Doan's Kidney Pills a fair trial."

One of the Consistent Fellows.

"Don't you like the dear old songs our mothers used to sing us to sleep?" asked the sentimental person.

"No, sir," answered the man who has snowflakes for blood corpuscles. "I endeavor to be consistent, and I realize that people used to keep the neighbors awake with those songs, just the same as they are doing now with obnoxious ballads."

Affability.

"That was a very affable old gent you had at your table, Tom," said one waiter to another. "He seemed to talk to you like a father."

"Yes, he was very—'Ang' 'is affability' suddenly exclaimed the other waiter. "Blowed if 'e ain't pocketed a couple of silver spoons."

"Well, I tell you what it is, Tom," said the first waiter sentimentally. "I always thought it, and now I know it—affability is 'ichly dangerous!' Beware of affability, I says!"—Nuggets.

A LIFE SAVED.—Mr. James Bryson, Cameleon, states: "I was confined to my bed with inflammation of the lungs, and was given up by the physicians. A neighbor advised me to try Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, and that his wife had used it for a throat trouble with the best results. Acting on his advice, I procured the medicine, and a few days later I was cured. I certainly believe it saved my life. It was with reluctance that I could not do a 'rich' was reduced to such a state that I doubt if the power of any remedy to do me any good."

The Highest Windmill.

The highest windmill in England is the "High Mill" at Great Yarmouth. It is believed also to be the highest in the world. Built in 1812 at a total cost of $20,000, its height in brick is 100 feet, and the wooden cage on the summit further increases this another ten feet. In a high wind the mill works at 30 horsepower and is capable of grinding nine tons of wheat an hour or crushing ten tons of oats an hour.

His Side of It.

She paused a moment and looked around the hall. "I repeat," she said, "where would man be today were it not for woman?"

THE VACATION TRUNK.

Now the trunk, Nifty trunk, Leaves its dusty attic bunk. Gladly the maiden bears it Bumping down the stair, but fears it Will not hold— Her manifold Pink ribbons and flimsy wrappings, Bathing suits and gasp-trapping, Shirts, slippers, gaudy bawls, Lingerie and function clothes, Linen skirts and silken hose, Outfit suits, and goodness knows What shall finally be sunk In the Saratoga trunk!

Note her smile, Troubled smile, As she contemplates the pile That somehow be included Ere her closets are decided, Mark the haste And the taste With which she finds location For each stunning new creation; See her place them here and there With a woman's loving care, Stuffing in all that she dares, Till, with a triumphant air, From her labors she doth rest, When everything inside is pressed.

Hear the loud Expressman groan, Lifting on the load of stonks; See him vanish without speaking Ample re-enforcements scolding: Hear the crash, And the smash, As they dump it in the wagon; Then adjust to quiff a fagot; See the sturdy horses strain; As they haul it to the train; Hear the baggage men exclaim, Say that summer's come again! When he hears the loud klunk Of the Saratoga trunk!

See the rude Summer duds, Greet it in cordial mood; Note the evasive maiden eye it, And in whispers don't deny it, Though they be impatiently Waiting for its swift unloading; Just to see if sight is lacking, While its owner scarce can wait To display its pretensions freight, But, although we lightly sneer Of this much containing store, Let a merry toast be drunk To the Saratoga trunk! —Colorado Springs Gazette.

Last Saturday Miss Ellen Thompson, of the Coventry settlement, met with a very painful accident which might have resulted fatally. While riding she had the misfortune to be thrown from her horse, dislocating her shoulder. She was brought to town and her injuries attended to by Drs. Turnbull & McCulloch.

Jack frost and No. 1 hard don't travel together as a rule, but they are generally associated in conversation these days. After the heavy rain of Tuesday there was great danger, but the weather has turned very warm and favorable for ripening. Some grain will be cut next week, but harvesting will not be general throughout the district for at least two weeks yet.

"Can you tell me what sort of weather we may expect next month?" wrote a subscriber to the editor, and the editor replied as follows: "It is my belief that the weather next month will be very much like your subscription." The inquirer wondered for an hour what the editor was driving at when he happened to think of the word "unsettled." He sent in the required amount next day.

Mr. Wellington White, our popular brick manufacturer, left last evening on a business trip to Prince Albert. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather for brick making this year, up to the present Mr. White has manufactured upwards of 500,000 at his Moose Jaw yard, 374,000 of which have been disposed of already. The balance and what will yet be made will be carried over for next year.

There is one Chicago lawyer who has a very nasty temper. One day his small boy was sitting on the floor, and the father picked him up and said: "What on earth are you doing? Why can't you sit still—wriggling and wringing every minute?" "It's all your fault," blubbered the boy. "Why is it?" "Cos I asked you last night how much a billion was, and you said it was a piece of a lot. The teacher asked me the same question to-day, and I said the same thing, and that's why I can't keep still."

While on a visit to a mining town which boasts of no professional barber, a gentleman had to submit his noble countenance to the tender and amateur mercies of an Irishman from Cork, by the name of O'Brien. As the tears rolled down his cheeks and the skin and hair literally flew, the gentleman ventured to ask, in a meant-to-be sarcastic way: "O'Brien, did you ever scrape a pig?" "Back came the reply like a stone from a catapult: "Never until in-silence. The operation was finished in silence.

"What is a dollar anyhow?" asked a friend of the editor the other day. A dollar is what some men promise to pay for their paper. It is something a newspaper man enjoys more in anticipation than reality. It is the price of a day's work for some men, a night's drunk for others. It is what a wife frequently needs but seldom has. It is the power that makes or unmakes men. It is the hardest thing to get and the easiest thing to get rid of known to mankind. It is a blessing in a small measure, and a delusion and a snare, and we are all chasing the delusion.—Ex.

In a letter to Mr. Dennis, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works, Mr. Ross, the Commissioner, states that by dividing into two and sometimes three parties, the commission has made better progress than the time card called for, and he expects to be home not later than the first week in September. The only Indians with whom attempted dealings developed difficulty were the St. John, who refused treaty, and on account of their attitude Mr. Ross deemed it wise to stop the work of the North-West Government party which was pushing a road through to St. John.

DISTRICT MEETING.

Methodist Ministers in Session To-day.

To-day Moose Jaw belongs to the Methodist ministers of the Regina district, about twenty of whom are here attending the annual district meeting. Dr. Leonard Gaetz, of Brandon, and Rev. Woodsworth, Superintendent of Missions, are also present. This morning was taken up with the business of the district. This afternoon there will be a convention on the Twentieth Century Fund, and in the evening a public meeting will be held in the Methodist church, to which all are invited. Dr. Gaetz and Rev. Woodsworth will deliver addresses, and a musical programme by local talent will also be rendered. A collection will be taken up during the evening.

The Benbow Case.

A case of interest to farmers was heard at Regina a few days ago, that of Benbow vs. The Scottish Ontario Land Co. Benbow purchased from the company a farm at Indian Head. The farm proved to be overrun with noxious weeds to such an extent that the municipality destroyed a hundred acres of his crop in the attempt to prevent their spread. Payment being in default, the company foreclosed and seized the remainder of the crop. Benbow brought action for damages for misrepresentation of the condition of the land, and asked for cancellation of the agreement and the refund of all monies paid by him.

A jury consisting of Messrs. Pettigill, Mowat, Rigby, Darke, Donahue and Bole was empanelled but the case did not go to them, as Judge Richardson held, upon hearing the case for the plaintiff, that by reason of delay in claiming a rescission of the agreement he was now estopped from the relief asked. The question of costs was reserved.

Johnstone for plaintiff; Aikens, Q. C., Culver, Q. C., and N. Mackenzie for the defendant.
